What white plant foods have you eaten this week?

White plant foods are WONDERFUL!
Can you think of any others that aren't on this page?

Coconuts really are nuts! They grow on tropical palm trees.

Bean sprouts are the sprouts of seeds such as mung beans!

Butter beans are sometimes called Lima beans.

Mushrooms are a type of fungus — they count towards your 5 A DAY!

Porridge oats make a great breakfast — pop some fruit on top!

Pasta and potatoes are good starchy foods.

Cauliflower is a type of cabbage! We eat its creamy-white flower buds.

Why is a mushroom always happy? Because he is a fun guy (fungi!).

These little onions are called shallots.

Haricot beans are used to make baked beans.

White cabbage is nicest eaten raw. Shred it and stir it into a salad!

Cannellini beans are popular in Italy!

This is what swede looks like inside.

Sprinkle pine nuts on fruit and yoghurt.

Onions are so tough they even make boys cry! When you cook them they turn into softies!

Parsnips are related to carrots!

Chickpeas are used to make houmous.

Celeriac makes lovely mash!

Garlic is a member of the onion family.

Turnip is a root vegetable — it grows underground.

Nuts contain good fat but some people are allergic to them.

The mooli is a giant radish!
